SEIU Wisconsin: Today is an Enormous Victory for the Nurses, Teachers, Students and Other Wisconsinites Who Courageously Stood Up to Walker's Anti-Middle Class Agenda

Statement of SEIU Healthcare President Dian Palmer, RN:

"Today is an enormous victory for the hundreds of thousands of nurses, home care workers, students, teachers, firefighters and other hardworking Wisconsinites who courageously stood up and spoke out against Governor Scott Walker's efforts to silence their voices and dismantle the middle class.

"During these difficult times, Wisconsin families can't afford politicians who play political games with their lives and their futures. These times call for real leaders who value fairness, reward hard work, and understand the importance of providing quality services to those who need them."

Statement of SEIU Wisconsin State Council President Mike Thomas:

"Governor Scott Walker has said these election results will not deter his reckless agenda. But today the world witnessed and politicians took notice of the growing movement of teachers, public school workers, nurses, bus drivers, firefighters, and ordinary Wisconsinites from Appleton to La Crosse who are standing up against this radical anti-middle class agenda.

"The people of Wisconsin expect our politicians to focus on creating the jobs our state desperately needs and lifting up our communities, not selling us out to the highest campaign contributor."
